

Ranger subscription for new entrants

If you are considering free range or organic egg production why not sign up now to start receiving the best source of information and guidance on the sector.

The Ranger magazine is published each month by the British Free Range Egg Producers Association for its members. It is packed with news, developments, trends and advice as well as technical articles and analysis from industry experts. You will also find the contacts you need for leading suppliers of buildings, equipment and layer breeds. It is little wonder that one of the egg industry's leading figures recently described the Ranger as a 'must-read' for anyone involved in free range.

To receive 12 monthly copies of the magazine at the special price of £36.00 (plus VAT) simply complete the form below. At the end of the year we hope you will be established as a producer and will want to apply for full BFREPA membership.
